Singapore, 25 March 2010. Tiger Airways has enabled early birds to fly even cheaper between 31 October 2010 and 28 February 2011. Book from now till 31 March 2010, and enjoy these special fares (including taxes):

Guangzhou – from $140
Haikou – from $120
Hong Kong – from $129
Macau – from $125
Shenzhen – from $135

Rosalynn Tay, Managing Director of Tiger Airways Singapore, said, “Our Greater China routes are popular because of our low, low fares and superior timings. For instance, our Guangzhou flights give travelers a fuller day for work or leisure.

“Looking ahead, we expect demand to increase with the opening of both Integrated Resorts in Singapore. Booking early is the surest way to secure seats at the lowest possible fares, particularly during peak periods such as Chinese New Year.”

Early bird fares are available for other destinations too. Pounce on them at www.tigerairways.com today!
