Tiger Airways Again Wins 2 Top Changi Airline Awards for Size & Growth

- Tiger beats other Singapore-based carriers to win top award for growth
- Top 10 passenger carriage award for 5 years running, since award started in 2006
- Tiger is now Singapore's biggest low-cost carrier, and 2nd biggest airline in terms of capacity

Singapore, 13 July 2010. Tiger Airways has once again received recognition for its achievements at the Changi Airline Awards 2010, collecting two top awards given to Changi Airport's partners for their contributions in making Changi Airport a key aviation hub in the region.

Singapore's biggest low-cost carrier and the second biggest airline beat all other Singapore-based carriers to win the inaugural award for Top Airline by Growth in Passenger Carriage – by Region (Singapore).

Tiger Airways also won the Top 10 Airlines award by passenger carriage, for the 5th consecutive year since the awards' inception in 2006.

Rosalynn Tay, Managing Director of Tiger Airways Singapore, said, "Since Tiger Airways started in September 2004, we have enjoyed a mutually beneficial partnership with Changi Airport. We are glad to have played a key role in its development as a top global airport, and Singapore's growth as an aviation hub. At the same time, Changi Airport's support and development of the Budget Terminal has helped us realize our vision of a truly low-fare offering for passengers.

"Thanks to our low, low fares, and our team of dedicated staff, we are now Singapore's biggest low-cost carrier, and the second biggest airline. What's more, we achieved this feat with only 10 narrow bodied aircraft. We are now ready to accelerate our low-fare revolution in the region with 4 more aircraft by December.

"With a bigger fleet, we look forward to serving more passengers with lower fares, and offering more opportunities to those seeking success with a winning airline." said Rosalynn Tay.
